Professional Experience

A registered Architect with over 30 years professional experience Malcolm Bowes was a founding principal of Architectus with Patrick Clifford and Michael Thomson in 1986.

Malcolm has been responsible for managing key client relationships, coordinating project resources on most of the large scale projects undertaken by the Auckland offices and for administering the day to day operations of the practice. In this role he has complemented Patrick Clifford's design leadership and Michael Thomson's technical skills.

He has recently been a member of the New Zealand Institute of Architects/Master Builders Joint Contracts Committee reviewing the NZIA Standard Conditions of Contract and the committee reviewing the NZIA Agreement for Architect Services. Malcolm is also a director of the New Zealand Architects Co-operative Society and Acanthus Ltd who provide professional indemnity insurance for architects.

Malcolm is a member of the Association of Learning Environments Australasia and has significant experience of construction industry bodies contributing to professional practice in New Zealand.
